Evidence now seems convincing that the Most Recent Common Ancestor (MRCA) between Billy Joe Varner & William Virgil Varner is likely NOT in North Carolina. It is further back. Results from additional tests, including the "Infinite allele mutation model" predicted MRCA between William Virgil & Billy Joe with a time range of 270-315 Years, with only a 50% probability.

Flip a coin. "On average" a coin lands heads 50% of the time. If you flip a coin 10 times it likely not turn out to be half and half. It COULD even be heads all 10 times! But flip a coin 1000 times & it likely will be close to 50/50. This is what makes predicting generations a gamble.

FamilyTree DNA says: At Y-67 level, with a 3 or 4 deviation, if two men share a surname, they likely have a MRCA within genealogical timeframe, if the deviations occur in several of the fast mutating genes. Our deviations between William Virgil & Billy Joe do NOT occur within those genes. Rather they occur to other, slow mutating genes.

This does not preclude that our families beat the odds, or that two already diverged ancestors lived in early NC at the same time, just that the MRCA just as likely did not occur in NC.
